

SAMPLE SEASONAL COLOURING IN SHEETS

In parishes where you do not regularly have children attending, there is no need to replace colouring in sheets weekly if you don't have children present. Consider replacing colouring sheets when needed, based on church seasons or special events rather than lectionary readings.

With the following sample colouring in sheets, an effort has been made to offer options can be used for a given season, however options for several particular days and pastoral services are also given.

TIP: Baptisms are an event when more children than expected may attend
- keep a stack of these ready year round, and let your welcomers know where these are in case extra children attend.

Note: If you do end up with children weekly, then lectionary-based colouring sheets are a sensible option (and provide variation while keeping the rest of the children's area the same week by week). Various free and paid options are available such as: <https://sermons4kids.com/colorpg.htm>, or <https://store.illustratedministry.com/collections/coloring-pages> (this website maintains progressive theology in general, but their colouring in sheets are non-controversial and arranged to match the Revised Common Lectionary).
